The Academic Affairs section of the KUNM Plan 2000 is primarily based on observations and recommendations made in the following documents:

Key components of this portion of the long range plan for KUNM development include:

- Establish an academic coordinator/faculty liaison (with course release)

- Development of an academic curriculum linking KUNM with the University's instructional/educational mission

- I & G monies to initiate and track academic offerings

- Establishment of academic supervision for internships

- Promotion of internships and independent study programs

- UNM courses established in the areas of broadcasting, production, etc.

- Eventual development of a Radio Studies Program (to be matched by a Television and Film Studies Program)

Needed:

- A breakdown of components into workable & measureable parts
- Timelines established for components and parts of components
- Identification of key players
